STRATEGIC HR ANALYTICS

HR Attrition Analysis & Retention Strategy

Data-driven workforce intelligence identifying turnover key drivers and actionable interventions to retain high-value talent.

Prepared by: Abdallah Nassar

Executive Summary & Objective

Objective & Context

Primary Goal: Analyze employee turnover patterns across key organisational dimensions to pinpoint high-risk drivers and safeguard operational continuity.

Business Challenge: Overall attrition stands at 16.12% (237 voluntary exits), impacting core productivity and raising replacement costs.

Scope: Multi-dimensional evaluation spanning Department, Job Role, OverTime status, Income, and Tenure lifecycle.

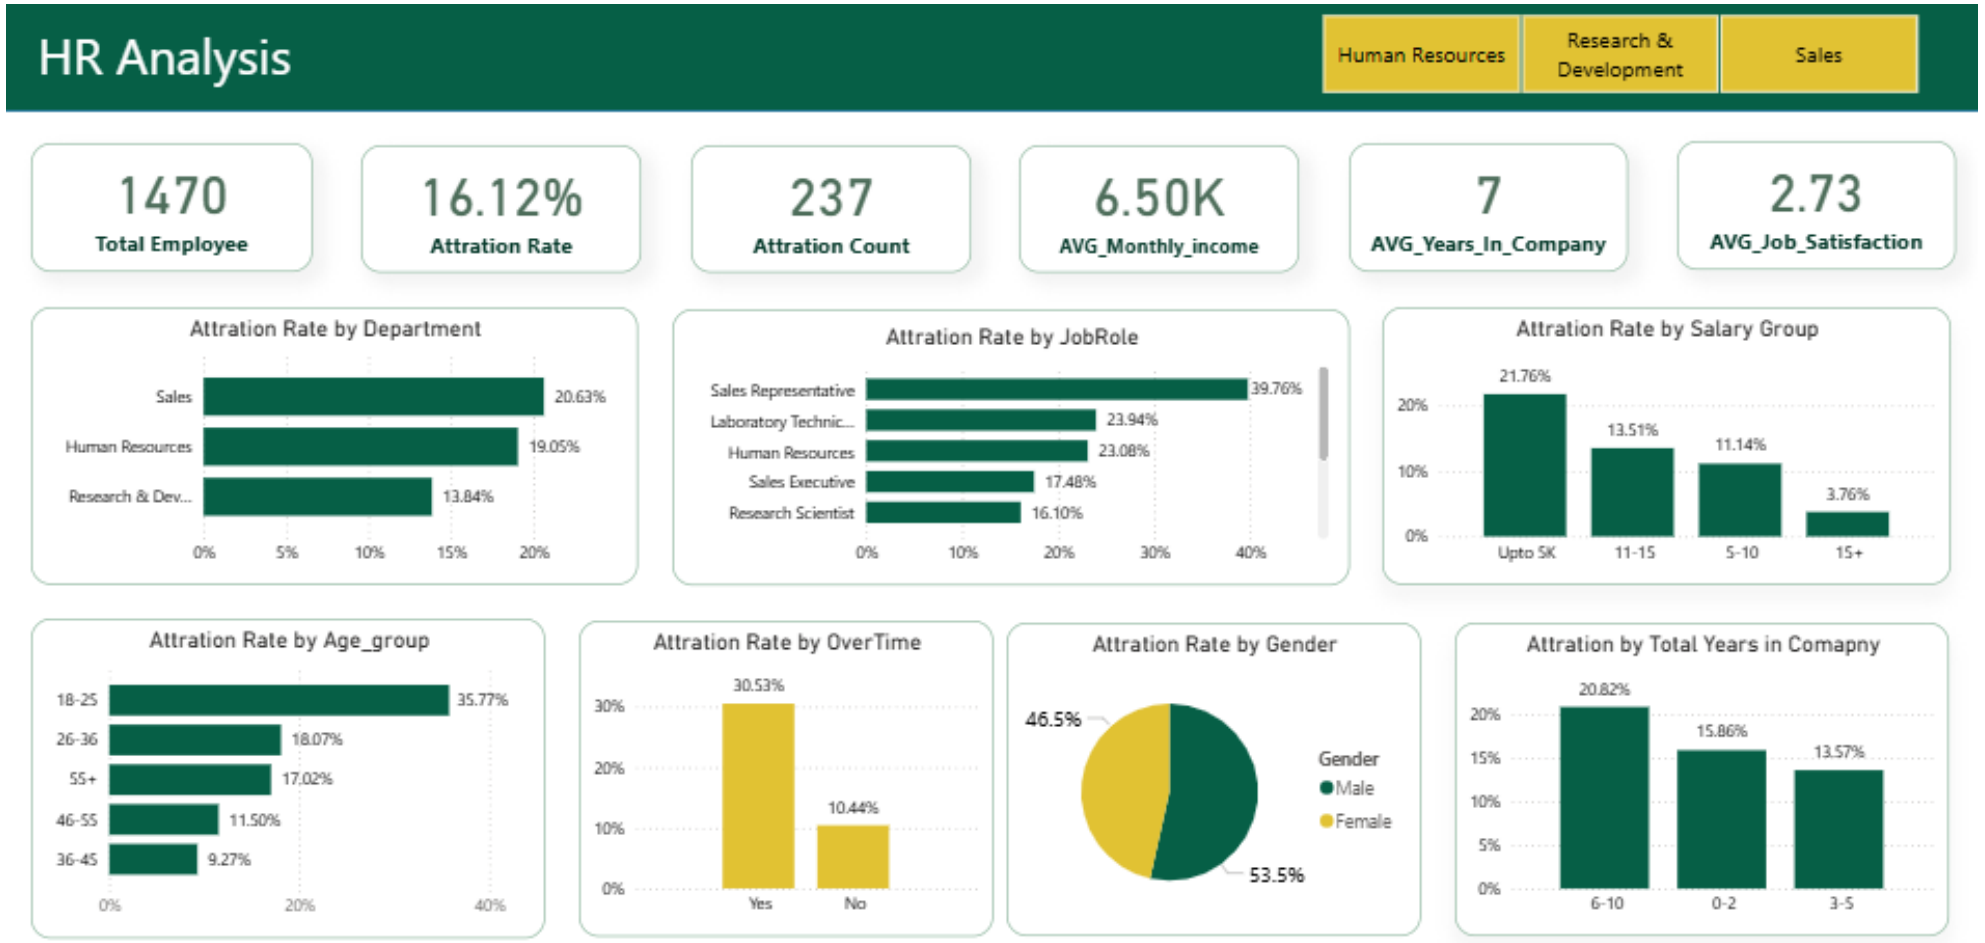

Core Strategic Takeaway

Overtime Burnout: Overtime workers experience 3x higher attrition compared to non-overtime staff.

Frontline & Entry Risk: High absolute volume loss in early tenure (0–2 years) driven by onboarding gaps.

Mid-Career Stagnation: Highest percentage turnover rate (20.82%) occurs in mid-career staff (6–10 years) due to compensation/promotion ceilings.

Sales exhibits the highest relative turnover risk.

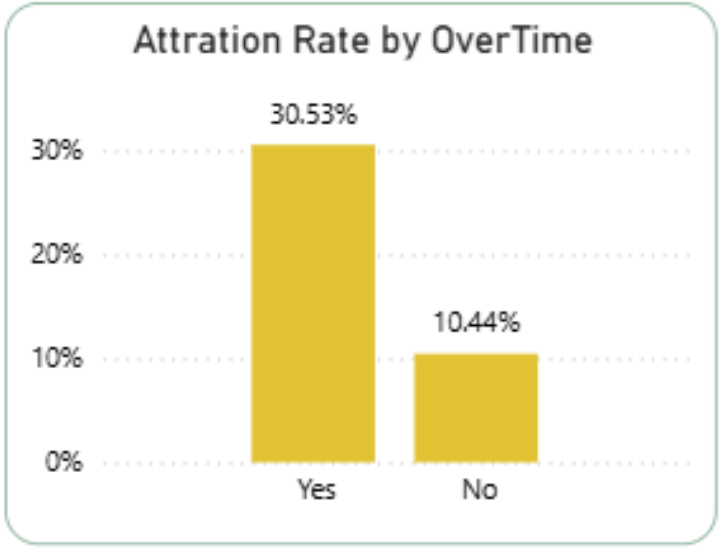

High-Risk Job Roles

Frontline sales & technical support show peak attrition.

Volume Insight: R&D holds the largest absolute exit count (133 exits) due to its ~65% overall workforce share, despite a lower percentage rate.

Workload Impact: The Overtime Factor

Key Workload Takeaways

3x Risk Multiplier: Employees assigned to regular overtime are nearly 3 times more likely to leave the organization.

Concentrated Stress: Heavy overtime reliance in Sales Representatives and Lab Technicians directly correlates with high exit rates.

Actionable Opportunity: Rebalancing shift loads and monitoring overtime hours represents the single quickest lever to improve retention.

Tenure-Based Attrition Lifecycle

0 – 2 Years

Volume Risk

15.86%

Primary Driver: High initial headcount turnover. Caused by onboarding gaps, early job mismatches, and unmet role expectations during assimilation.

3 – 5 Years

Stabilization

13.57%

Primary Driver: Relative tenure stability. Employees become established in their roles and integrated into team workflows.

6 – 10 Years

Rate Peak

20.82%

Primary Driver: Peak turnover rate. Caused by mid-career stagnation, compensation ceilings, and limited upward promotion paths.

Strategic Dual Focus Required: Implement early-tenure onboarding support (0–2 yrs) to reduce immediate volume loss, while building mid-career growth paths (6–10 yrs) to retain experienced talent.

Age Group Attrition Curve

Younger talent exhibits highest turnover probability.

Core Retention Pillars

1. Workload Balancing

Address high overtime reliance in Sales & Lab teams. Re-evaluate headcount allocation and set strict thresholds for consecutive overtime assignments.

2. Onboarding Integration

Protect 0–2 year employees via structured 30-60-90 day reviews, buddy programs, and clearer early career expectations to lower volume attrition.

3. Mid-Career Pathways

Mitigate the 6–10 year 20.8% turnover peak by unlocking senior individual contributor tracks, leadership mentoring, and salary reviews.

Action Plan Roadmap

1

Immediate (30 Days)

Overtime Audit: Cap excessive overtime in Sales & R&D.

Compensation Benchmarking: Review entry salary tiers under $5K.

2

Medium Term (60–90 Days)

Early Tenure Program: Roll out structured 30-60-90 day onboarding check-ins.

Sales Role Restructuring: Review Sales Rep incentives and commission goals.

3

Long Term (6 Months+)

Career Pathways: Launch leadership tracks for 6–10 year tenured staff.

Pulse Monitoring: Establish quarterly engagement surveys to track progress.

Strategic Impact

By executing these targeted interventions, the organization can substantially reduce turnover cost and safeguard key talent.

- Protect revenue by stabilizing Sales Rep attrition (39.8%).
- Retain institutional knowledge in mid-career personnel.
- Create an agile, balanced, and sustainable workforce model.
